

book of the month The Attributes of God – Arthur W. Pink

The foundation of all true knowledge of God must be a clear mental apprehension of His perfections as revealed in Holy Scripture. An unknown God can neither be trusted, served, nor worshipped. – Arthur W. Pink

It is difficult to recommend a book more highly than this one. I have repeatedly turned to The Attributes of God for encouragement and correction concerning God's character. I first picked up this book 8 years ago, very early on in my Christian walk. The very first chapter on the solitariness of God changed my life. I read this chapter multiple times before I could read any further because I had never been confronted with such a description of God before. No one had helped me feel the weight of my own insignificance in comparison to God or taught me that God was so utterly set apart from His creation. I read it and reread it and I was wrecked in the best way possible!

God also used this book to set me on a search for God's attributes in Scripture that continues today. I remember reading the first few chapters and looking up every Scripture reference (and there are plenty!), and thinking to myself, "Why haven't I ever seen God this way? I know I've read these passages before." So while I read this book, I also began highlighting God's character in my daily Bible reading and I started to see God's greatness for myself in Scripture.

This book has also had a profound impact on my wife, Emily. It was the first extra-biblical book that she consulted after we learned that we had miscarried our first pregnancy. We both were encouraged and were reminded that God's character, as revealed in Scripture, was the foundation upon which we could eagerly build our trust. We often find ourselves recommending this book to others as a fitting resource for a variety of circumstances because, as Pink notes, "A spiritual and saving knowledge of God is the greatest need of every human creature."

Heart-Shepherding Help

1. Pink references a plethora of passages in support of each attribute. Familiarize yourself with at least one Scripture reference (in context) from each chapter.
2. After reading a chapter, begin considering what impact that attribute of God ought to have on you today. Why are you thankful that God possess this characteristic?
